

Koi Pisco Bar

Pisco is the Peruvian national spirit and a real South American favorite.

Pisco is obtained from the distillation of fermented Peruvian grape musts. Some say its like Grappa because both are made from grapes, others relate it to Tequila because of its similar herbal and almost earthy flavours.

The truth is, comparisons to other liquors often fall flat because Pisco has its own unique personality. This distilled spirit has established itself in the emerging cocktail culture, giving its name to such classics as Pisco Sour and chilcanos

Tequila

Just as grapes are used to make wine, agave is the plant from which agave spirits are distilled. We bring you two categories of these spirits in the form of Tequila and Mezcal. Tequila can be just from one variety of agave "Weber Blue Agave", while Mezcal can be produced from up to 50 species of the agave plant. Terroir and aging play a vital role in the final finish of this heavenly spirit.
